

Roundtable on Population Health Improvement
Economic Systems as a Structural Driver of Population Health—Partnerships
A Workshop

September 18, 2024

AGENDA

This workshop will build on the earlier conversations about the power of narratives and explore the impact of partnerships, action, and movements intended to drive policy change for an equitable well-being economy. Presentations will reflect the state of the science, showcase different ways of work together for an equitable economy, and continue connecting the dots among economic systems, political economy, and population health and well-being.

Presentations and discussions will cluster around three concepts related to different ways of partnering and finding common ground: solidarity, shared value, and movement building.
